COACHES ON HUNT FOR MATERIAL IN SLIM SQUADS OUT

With all schools reporting small squads, Business High School football candidates reported to the school today for the initial workout of the season. With Business in line all of the high school squads are accounted for. This, the next few days Georgetown, Prep, Connag, Army and Navy Prep and possibly St. Albans will be in line for the season.

The youngsters generally beat the college teams out on the field every year and this season is no exception. All schools are late in starting and little work has been done by the scholastic teams as yet on account of the failure of many boys to report.

Eastern is encountering the greatest difficulty in getting boys out for football. Dr. Willard Small, principal of the Capitol Hill School, said recently, he thought it probable that Eastern would have no team this year for the high school series.

Few boys have reported to Captain Newman at Eastern. Coach McCaffrey has resigned and there appears to be no one to take his place at present. Eastern has several first-class players from last year, but has lost the services of a number of dependable athletes.

The week has given Western no encouragement in numbers or quality of players, and reports from Georgetown say there is a difficulty in getting boys out for the eleven earlier than the time for starting school. Tech has had a few players in line during the week, and Central reports good and bad practice days on account of a number of football players working.

Monday the schools open and coaches are expected to have plenty of material upon which to work.

LEAGUE'S LEADERS FALL INTO SLUMPS THIS WEEK

All the leading batters in the American League took a slump last week. Even the mighty Ty Cobb dropped back from a mark of 385 to 373, so there is an excuse for some of the more human batters. If the demon slinger can drop more than ten points, others need not feel so wretched about it.

After Sam Rice got into the .300 class he promptly took a bad case of slumpitis and now has to acknowledge a mark of .294. Clyde Mikan hopped back to .286, but appears to be waking up in the last few games.

Tip Speaker has passed Browne Slater, which is an interesting bit of dope for those who are following the race for second place. Joe Jackson, long counted down and out this year, is showing the same signs of life that took Duffy Lewis into the .300 class.

Here are the marks of all Washington batters and those who are hitting better than .250.

FORDHAM LOOKING FOR VICTORY AS M'CAFFREY COMES

NEW YORK, Sept. 15.—The appointment of Dr. Frank W. McCaffrey, former all-American star to the position of head gridiron mentor, left vacant by the resignation of Coach Frank Gargan, assures Fordham University a successful campaign on the gridiron this season. Like his predecessor, Dr. McCaffrey is a former gridiron star who earned his athletic spurs at the Bronx school of learning. Each was considered the superior of all rivals at their positions during their playing days.

Frank Gargan proved himself a mentor of no mean ability. His work at Georgetown, when he succeeded in winning the championship of the South, as well as his phenomenal success at Fordham, gives him the right to be listed among the great gridiron coaches of the present day. He is at present leading the Fordham University ambulance unit "somewhere in France." He resigned his coaching job last spring to lead a large delegation of his athletic pupils to one of Uncle Sam's recruiting stations.

Capt. "Bull" Lowe, the former Eton Academy star, whom Walter Camp calls the greatest lightweight tackle of football, will not be on hand to lead the Maroon eleven. Lowe accompanied Frank Gargan and the majority of last season's championship eleven over to the European battle front. Not a single varsity player is left in school for the coming season. All have enlisted in some department of Uncle Sam's fighting forces. For this reason Dr. McCaffrey's job appears to be one which would cause many a mentor to lose heart before even starting work, especially when it is known that the Maroon management has scheduled the most difficult schedule of any metropolitan team. Cornell, Georgetown, Rutgers, Villa Nova, Holy Cross, and many more real big teams will be met.

OLD DOCTOR COX IS SECOND BEST HURLER OF GRIFFS

Next to Walter Johnson is Old Doctor Cox Ayers, second among Griff's hurlers for the season so far. Doctor Cox grabbed two shutouts this week and earned a sixteen inning tie with the Red Sox.

Ayers has taken part in thirty-six games—regular affairs that is—although he is credited with but nine wins and eight losses. These games take no account of the furious "bull pen" encounters Ayers has gone through since April 12.

Here are the records of all the Washington pitchers and others who have won more than they have lost:

SERIES IS TIED UP.

JAMIESON LAUGHS AS HE WINS GAME FROM OLD FRIENDS

It doesn't pay to grin when a lad has to quit a ball team, particularly when he joins another in the same league. Because? Well, now and then he comes back and raises ructions with your own pet ball club. That's what "Cuckoo" Jamieson did yesterday, and that's why the Mackmen, despised tailenders, copped the second victory, 2 to 1.

Up four times, Jamieson collected three bingles. His team scored two runs, and he was the boy caught time in the fifth he showed commendable agility in robbing Leonard of an extra-base wallop, and his peg to the plate in the sixth stopped a home boy from scoring.

Cornie Mack turned loose a rookie, Naylor, just recalled from the tall grass, and he had no trouble outpitching Jim Shaw. Naylor was a side wild, but with Jamieson on his side, it was soft.

REX A. C. PLAYERS TO STACK AGAINST CLARENDON'S CLUB

Rex A. C. victors over the Athletics last Sunday are scheduled to play Clarendon, leaders of the Virginia District Amateur League tomorrow at Columbia Park, Fifteenth and H streets northeast at 3:15 p. m.

The Cardinals and Athletics will meet in Alexandria in the scheduled contest there. Cardinals and Athletics are out of the race for the title. Should Rex come through with a winning battle the team is thought to have a look in for the title.

Manager Wright will send Braund to the mound for the Rex players while Clarendon will select either Priell, von Herbulis or Herperger.

BOSTON FANS FAVOR GIANTS AS WINNERS

BOSTON, Sept. 15.—As the prospective pennant winners of the National League pennant, Manager McGraw and his Giants were received here quite cordially when they arrived on the first lap of their final swing around the circuit. To judge by the betting in the town of culture, Hub (as are of the opinion that the clan McGraw will trample roughshod over the White Sox in the world's series.

The baseball enthusiasts here would of course prefer to see the Red Sox as the Giants' opponents in the coming classic, but as this is now but a forlorn hope, the old-time National League feeling that prevailed here for years is again in evidence.

The Giants are recognized as the class of the country, and sentiment favors them as winners in the big event. McGraw and his troops arrived here with everything in their favor for a successful and whirlwind tour of the circuit. They have nothing to worry about. The championship is virtually cinched.

SAM LANGFORD ARRIVES TODAY FOR BIG CLASH

Sam Langford, the "Boston Tar Baby," matched to go fifteen rounds Monday night at Ardmore against Andy Johnson, the New York "Ton o' Coal," is on his way to Washington today from Toledo, Ohio, where he boxed Thursday night. He should arrive by nightfall, accompanied by his manager, Joe Woodman. Johnson should pull into town tomorrow afternoon, according to word from the big town.

Donovan's lack of condition has wiped him off the slate for Monday's show. Kid Lee, of Baltimore, has been matched with Jimmy Johnson, of Norfolk, is one of the specials that had been reserved for Donovan. Roughhouse Spriggs and Young Shamrock will meet in a four-round bout.
